MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE DISNEY CHANNEL

Dear Subscriber,

For four days this month—September 6th through 9th—we'll present our first national preview of The Disney Channel. In addition to regularly scheduled programs, we've assembled a spectacular array of movies and entertainment for this special event. And as you watch it all happen, you'll have your chance to compete for Mickey Mouse telephones, Mickey Mouse watches, and free trips to Disneyland or Walt Disney World!

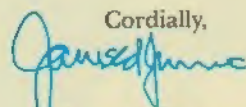

Among the many happy surprises in store for you that weekend are live telecasts featuring Steve Allen, Annette Funicello, Harry Morgan, and Michael Young. "Five Mile Creek" stars Louise Caire Clark, Liz Burch, and Jay Kerr will also be on hand to show you scenes from forthcoming made-for-the-Channel movies like "The Undergrads" and "The Black Arrow."

A new one-hour "Steve Allen's Music Room" special featuring Ann Jillian, Doc Severinsen and Patti Page debuts over the weekend, along with new episodes of "DTV," "Disney Family Album," and "Big Bands at Disneyland," spotlighting The Tommy Dorsey Orchestra with special guest Connie Haines. Annette Funicello stars in the television favorite, "The Horsemasters," and celebrity guests Ken Norton, Lynn Redgrave and Lou Ferrigno appear on "You and Me, Kid."

Movies, movies, movies! We're loaded with them that weekend, so be sure and catch all the special screenings.

In fact, keep your eye on all the shows during our preview gala—because that's how you can compete for over 300 prizes that include free four-day trips for four to Disneyland and Walt Disney World. See page 29 for details.

Tune in and join the fun!

Cordially,

James P. Jimirro

JULIE ANDREWS IN WALT DISNEY LAND

Exactly 20 years ago Julie Andrews, as Mary Poppins, soared over the rooftops of London into an Academy Award-winning film career. The year before, fresh from gigantic stage successes in "Camelot" and "My Fair Lady," she had arrived in Hollywood with her six-month-old daughter Emma and an English nanny. She was hardly a stranger in town—Walt Disney had brought her to the studio with plenty of fanfare heralding her movie debut—but even Julie was surprised at the magic he wrought to make her comfortable.

"Walt had a house waiting for us," she says. "An English cottage near the studio, with a swimming pool and flower garden. He had it completely decorated by his art director. He gave us a station wagon, and invited us to spend weekends at the studio's Golden Oak Ranch. I'd collect a few friends and we'd go out with a movie projector, stacks of films, lots of food and drink. We had a wonderful time there, horseback riding, swimming, canoeing, movies and outdoor barbecuing. I'll never forget Walt for that."

Filming on "Poppins" progressed smoothly, although Julie remembers one time she nearly ran out of patience.

"It was the 'Spoonful of Sugar' number," she says. "Walt visualized the scene. He wanted a cute little robin to flutter in, perch on my finger, and chirp while I sang. So he had them make an Audio-Animatronics bird. A charming touch, but complicated. There were yards of control wires which I had to wear under my costume and down one sleeve. By the time I was rigged up, with the robin taped to my hand, I was carrying more circuitry than an Apple II. And then, while a crew animated the bird, I had to sing to a playback synchronized for twitters. Walt was smart. He didn't visit the set that day."

Julie also remembers a notable epilogue to the picture. With filming completed, requests for publicity layouts were coming in. Look magazine wanted shots of Julie flying over London, so she let herself be raised by wires to the rooftop set 20 feet above ground. But during the shoot the hydraulic lift malfunctioned, and Julie plummeted to within inches of the sound stage floor. It was a close call, she was frightened, and when Life magazine asked for similar pictures, with Walt waving goodbye to her from the rooftops, she demurred.

"But everyone assured me there'd be no problems this time," she recalls. "They would handcrank me up, and handcrank me down. So up I went, and everybody was fussing around, making sure I was safe, clucking and asking 'Are you okay, darling?,' 'Are you comfortable?,' 'Is everything all right?'"

"Meanwhile Walt had scrambled to the top of the roof by himself, slipping and sliding on his leather-soled shoes. He got his arms around a chimney pot and was dangling there, 20 feet in the air. 'For beep sake!' he yelled. 'Doesn't anybody give a beep about the boss? If I fall off this thing and bust my beep, it's all your jobs!' So of course all the attention went to Walt —'Oh Walt, is everything all right?,' 'Be careful now,' 'Hang in there, you're okay'—and we got the pictures."

Julie enjoyed making "Mary Poppins," which went on to win five

Academy Awards and set box office records at the time. Yet she never made another movie for the studio. About two months into production, she signed for "The Sound of Music" at 20th Century-Fox and "The Americanization of Emily" at M-G-M. Her salary had jumped to a million dollars a picture, and with their release she was suddenly the biggest star in the world. Walt Disney felt sure that if the right part came along, she would do another film for him. But the opportunity did not arrive in his lifetime. The closest she came was in the late 1960s when Bill Walsh, co-producer of "Mary Poppins," offered her the role of an amateur witch in "Bedknobs and Broomsticks." At first Julie thought it was too much like "Poppins."

"We were talking about it," recalls Tom Jones, then the studio's publicity director, "and Julie said, 'I've had second thoughts. Maybe I've made a mistake. Maybe I should do that picture.' Just then my secretary came in and handed me a note from Bill Walsh. It said, 'We've just signed Angela Lansbury for "Bedknobs and Broomsticks."' Julie was on the verge of changing her mind."

Julie Andrews, however, continued to appear in TV and other productions for the studio. She was a headliner on the network special opening Walt Disney World in 1971. Julie and her studio entourage arrived several days before the telecast. They were billeted in the same hotel wing, and Julie generously suggested that they all get together every morning for breakfast in her suite. She'd take their orders at night and phone them down to room service for delivery next morning. Makeup artist Bob Schiffer, who arrived a few days later, remembers bumping into the room service waiter outside his door.

"The kid says, 'Do you know who's in the room next to you?' I play dumb and say no. He says, 'It's Julie Andrews, the movie star.' I say, 'Really! Is she a nice person?' He says, 'Oh yes. The only thing is, she orders the darndest breakfasts. She'll have two orders of pancakes, two orders of scrambled eggs, three or four rashers of bacon, some sausage, four or five fruit drinks—orange juice, tomato juice, grapefruit juice—and two or three pots of coffee. And,' he says, 'I just don't know how she stays so thin, eating all that food!'"

Here are yesterday-and-today photos of some Mouseketeers. Can you match 'em up? You'll find the answers on page 28.

MOUSEKETEER ROLL CALL

As we continue through the years, we won't forget the Mouseketeers.
Hep! Two! Three! Four! Hooray! Hooray! Hooray! Cheers for the merry Mouseketeers! *

Almost from the moment the nostalgic "Mickey Mouse Club" returned on The Disney Channel's launch date of April 18, 1983, we began receiving letters asking about the Mouseketeers.

Many of you remember when the series first went on the air, October 3, 1955. Out of hundreds of youngsters who auditioned, 24 ranging in age from eight to 14 were chosen for the Club's premiere season. Eventually their ranks swelled to 39. Your interest in those Mouseketeers continues unabated, so let's start with the nine who went the distance from opening day until the Club ended in 1959 and see what some of them are doing now.

Tommy Cole is an Emmy Award-winning makeup artist. Annette Funicello is a familiar TV and recording star. Karen Pendleton is retired from show business and lives in Fresno, Calif. Bobby Burgess, longtime dancer on the Lawrence Welk Show, is presently touring with a Welk troupe. Lonnie Burr is a busy actor ("42nd Street") and writer ("Two for the Show — Great Comedy Teams"). Sharon Baird is a popular TV performer. Doreen Tracey also is still active in show business. Darlene Gillespie is a registered nurse who appears on special occasions with other ex-Mouseketeers. Cubby O'Brien is a topflight professional drummer.

Moving right along, Sherry Alberoni does cartoon voices and TV commercials. Margene Storey is a prison guard in Sonora, Calif. Don Underhill is a businessman. Bonnie Lynn Fields is a dancer and owner of Lynn Fields School of Tap and Performing Arts. Bronson Scott is a homemaker and mother. Larry Larsen is an engineer. Dickie Dodd is a singer, drummer and bandleader. Judy Harriet is married and the mother of two. Tim Rooney writes and produces TV commercials. Johnny Crawford is an actor/entertainer. Dennis Day is an actor/director. Mickey Rooney Jr. is a songwriter/singer/actor. Eileen Diamond produces stage and TV shows. Cheryl Holdridge is a homemaker in Aspen, Colorado. Don Grady arranges and composes music. Lynn Ready is a songwriter and record producer.

Most of the 39 Mouseketeers who appeared on the air reassembled for a 25th Anniversary TV special in 1980. Several of them perform in an annual musical variety show at Disneyland which recreates numbers from The Mickey Mouse Club.

PLAY BALL WITH THE DETROIT TIGERS

Roy Scheider, Justin Henry, Ron McClarty, Bethany Carpenter

Grab a box seat and enjoy this baseball hit about a fading player and a miracle-working fan.

Billy Young (Roy Scheider), 39, is ending a brilliant career with the Detroit Tigers. But he's never won a pennant, and it seems unlikely that he ever will.

Twelve-year-old Alex (Justin Henry) is a die-hard Tiger fan who idolizes Young. During one discouraging game Alex concentrates with all his might on the aging player. Miraculously, Young hits a homer.

Now, whenever Alex is in the stands, Young delivers. But when the boy is absent, Young's winning streak vanishes. In the last inning of the pennant game, The Tigers need three runs to win. Young steps up to bat — and Alex isn't around. You'll gasp at the outcome of this breathtaking big league thriller.

"I had no excuse. I just loved baseball," Roy Scheider admitted when he agreed to days of strenuous practice with the Tigers before starting his role.

"Not being skilled at running, I pulled and stretched muscles until my legs bowed out like a drunken cow's. When I swung and missed a pitch, oh how the rib cage ached. When I made a hit on the handle of the bat, my hands stung. I got through the picture, but it took a month afterward before I could bend over or move quickly without pain."

Roy Scheider scores a homer (above) as Justin Henry urges him on (below left) after encountering bullies

The idea for "Tiger Town" came to writer-director Alan Shapiro, 26, in four words: baseball, kid, Al Kaline. Kaline, a legendary diamond star who played most of his career with the Tigers before finally realizing his dream of winning a pennant and a World Series, is one of Shapiro's sports heroes. The role of Billy Young is loosely based on Al Kaline.

"Tiger Town" was filmed at Tiger Stadium and other landmarks in Detroit. Tiger manager Sparky Anderson, sportscasters Ernie Harwell and Ray Lane, and singer Mary Wilson make cameo appearances. Besides the Tigers, the Baltimore Orioles, Cleveland Indians, Milwaukee Brewers and California Angels are featured in this exclusive Disney Channel movie.

WINNER OF FIVE ACADEMY AWARDS

Mary Poppins

Julie Andrews, Dick Van Dyke,
David Tomlinson, Glynis Johns

Here it is, the classic you've been asking for! We're proud to present The Disney Channel premiere of "Mary Poppins," Walt Disney's musical masterpiece which sparkles among the great films of all time.

Julie Andrews stars as the wondrous "practically perfect" nanny who amazes the Banks family of London in 1910. Dick Van Dyke plays her admiring friend Bert. The magic begins when Bert introduces the residents of Cherry Tree Lane and continues as Mary Poppins floats down from the sky under an open umbrella, carrying a carpetbag filled with marvels.

Mary's charges are little

Jane and Michael Banks (Karen Dotrice, Matthew Garber). Together they enjoy a jolly holiday with Bert and some dancing penguins, visit Mary's gravity-defying Uncle Albert (Ed Wynn), and zip up a chimney for a bird's-eye view of London. Their adventures are interwoven with 14 songs and show-stopping musical numbers.

P. L. Travers, who wrote five books about Mary Poppins, refused to grant film rights to them until Walt Disney approached her in London with his ideas for a screen version. Walt's next coup was to sign Julie Andrews, fresh from stage triumphs in "My Fair Lady" and "Camelot," for her movie debut in the title role. He assigned Bill Walsh and Don DaGradi to write the screenplay, Richard M. and Robert B. Sherman to compose the songs, and Marc Breau and Dee Dee Wood to choreograph the dances. The result was five Academy Awards and a place in filmdom's Hall of Fame for "Mary Poppins."

The Absent-minded Professor

Fred MacMurray, Nancy Olson, Keenan Wynn

Take a farcical flight in the world's first flubber-powered flivver!

Fred MacMurray's an absent-minded professor who accidentally invents flying rubber, or "flubber." He can't remember the formula, but once he discovers that the gooey glop can bounce almost anything to fabulous heights, the fun really flies.

First he flubberizes and flies his Model T Ford. Then the school's pint-sized basketball team gets a hilarious jump on the competition, thanks to flubberized shoes.

The professor's feeling flushed with success until the town loan shark spots his airborne tin lizzie and furtively filches it. Can forgetful Fred recover his flubber-fueled flivver? Follow the feats of "The Absent-Minded Professor" and find out!

MOTHER IS A FRESHMAN

Loretta Young, Van Johnson, Rudy Vallee

It's time for higher education when daughter (Betty Lynn) and her attractive mother (Loretta Young) enroll in the same college. It's back to basics when a handsome teacher (Van Johnson) becomes the object of their affections.

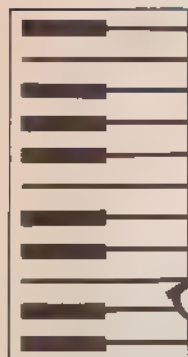

This co-ed comedy preceded Miss Young's retirement from films after a career which began when she was only four. She won an Academy Award in 1947 for her performance as "The Farmer's Daughter," and earned further honors as star of "The Loretta Young Show" on TV. She recalls her vivid life in a book of memoirs, "The Things I Had to Learn."

THE EXPLORERS

"The Makiritare Of Venezuela"

Traveling with explorer/filmmaker Jens Bjerre into southeast Venezuela to observe the Makiritare (meaning "river people") Indians is like journeying back in time.

The Amazon River's waterfalls and rapids have isolated the tribe from civilization, preserving their primal society.

The camera observes their food-gathering techniques, crafts, and social rituals which have remained virtually unchanged for thousands of years

JIM MACDONALD MAKES SURE DISNEY MOVIES SOUND GOOD

Jim Macdonald

Let's go behind the sounds with Jim Macdonald, who's been making noises for Disney movies since 1945.

In his "laboratory" at the studio, a combination workshop and warehouse of gizmos, gadgets and gimmicks, Macdonald reveals the source of many sound effects on screen. The crackling of a forest fire is no more than dry bamboo shoots being rubbed together. The surging of surf is the tumbling of dried beans in a barrel. Clock chimes and wedding bells, hoofbeats and raindrops, are really...but let Macdonald show us his secrets.

Jim Macdonald estimates he's created over

28,000 sound effects for 139 Disney feature-length films and 335 cartoons.

He's spoken for numerous animated characters including Chip of Chip 'n' Dale, Gus and Jaq of "Cinderella," and the Dormouse in "Alice in Wonderland." He was also the voice of Dopey in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." Dopey didn't talk, you say? Listen closely as Macdonald reviews "his" scenes from that animated classic.

Although he has formally retired, Macdonald still practices his art for certain Disney productions. He and his successor, Wayne Allwine, conclude our visit with an awesome performance of "The Jim Macdonald Sound Effects Symphony."

Mountaineers on the trail

Kit Carson and the Mountain Men

Christopher Connelly, Robert Reed, Gary Lockwood

Where does fact end and legend begin? Or are the two historically entwined? Watch this saga of heroism and treachery on the Western frontier, then judge for yourself.

Young Randy Benton (Ike Eisenmann) is thrilled at riding with Kit Carson (Christopher Connelly), whose exploits embellish many dime novels. Carson has agreed to join a trail-blazing expedition which could spell statehood for Texas and California.

But there are those who oppose such possibilities, and it's against them that Carson and his mountain men must fight.

Fans of fathers everywhere must have united for this election, because "Superdad" stole more hearts and more votes than "Light in the Forest" (second) or "Smoke" (third).

Meet Dad, a lovable, bumbling worrier—mostly about his teenage daughter. He decides to keep an eye on her by acting like one of the gang.

Dad's intentions lead him into the worst and funniest situations! The harder he tries to cross the generation gap the wider it gets!

takes on a foray to the town junkyard. When the robot runs amok, Paul needs more help than even Tom can provide.

Without telling his mom, Tom agrees to babysit a boa constrictor in "Snakes and Ladders" (premiering September 15). When Paul lets the snake out of the bag, Tom must retrieve it before a very important, at-home meeting of Mrs. Edison's Chamber Music Society.

Both episodes contain an animated explanation of a related scientific principle.

Ronny Howard plays a transplanted city boy

A Boy Called Nuthin'

Forrest Tucker, John Carroll, Ronny Howard

What happens when a city kid goes out West to live with his uncle on a horse ranch? Plenty. Especially when Uncle turns out to be a whiskery codger called Turkeyneck, the ranch is a wreck and teetering on the brink of bankruptcy, the hired hand is a character called Sagebrush, and the dog is named Crowbait.

Well, Turkeyneck can't find much about his nephew to be happy about either. After a lot of give and take during which a girl named Laura Kate mixes in, matters reach a showdown at a crucial mustang roundup.

HERBIE GOES BANANAS

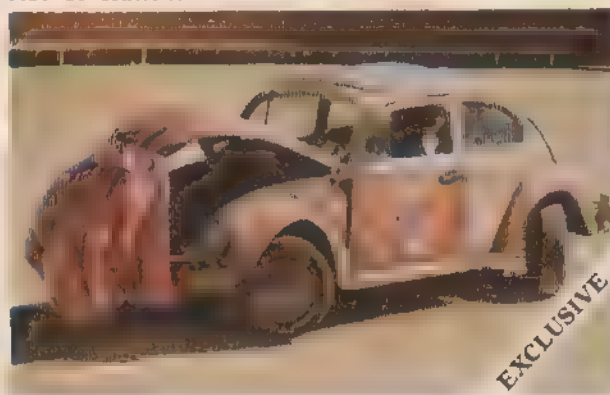

Cloris Leachman, Charles Martin Smith, Harvey Korman

Herbie the carismatic Volkswagen is back for his fourth and most a-peeling adventure, this time in the jungles of a banana republic.

The fun begins when Herbie and his new owners (Charles Martin Smith, Stephan Burns) head for the Grande Premio de Brazil racing classic aboard a luxury cruise ship. They're detoured in Central America, setting off a riot of stunt-filled races and high-speed jungle chases that steer them into the plaza de toros where Herbie fights a raging bull.

In the course of his film career, Herbie has racked up impressive achievements. For "Herbie Goes to Monte Carlo" he was issued a passport from the U.S. Dept. of Immigration. He's put his tire tracks in cement at Hollywood's Chinese Theater. And while going bananas in this comedy, he became the first car to swim

Goddard and Chaplin resist storm troopers

THE GREAT DICTATOR

Charles Chaplin, Jack Oakie, Paulette Goddard

In this satire on Fascism, released in the politically explosive year of 1940, Charlie Chaplin plays the dual role of Hynkel, "The Great Dictator," and a ghetto barber who looks exactly like him. Comic complications begin when each is mistaken for the other, and barber becomes dictator.

This was Chaplin's first talkie. "It turns out to be a truly superb accomplishment by a truly great artist," wrote Bosley Crowther of

The New York Times.

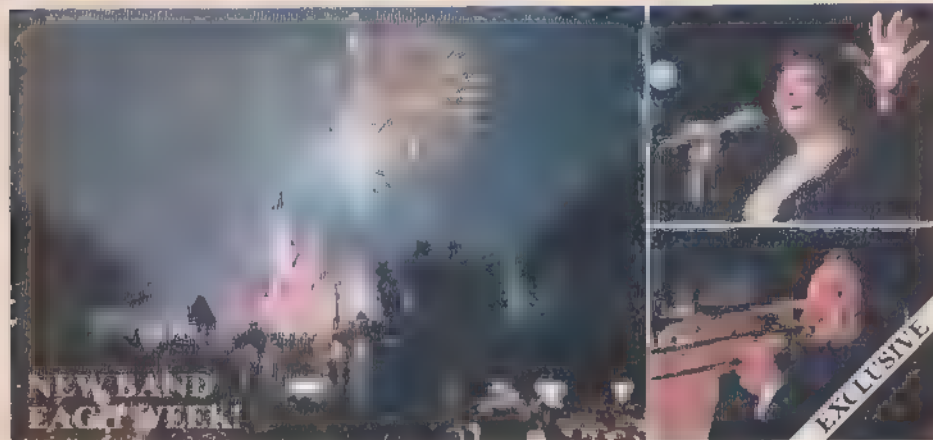

"The Great Dictator" was nominated for an Academy Award as best picture of the year; Chaplin was nominated as best actor and as writer of best original screenplay; Jack Oakie (who played a rival dictator named Napaloni) was nominated as best supporting actor, and Meredith Willson (of "Music Man" fame) was nominated for best original score.

TWO NEW COMPLETE STORIES EACH MONTH!

FIVE MILE CREEK

Louise Caire Clark, Rod Mullinar, Liz Burch,
Michael Caton, Priscilla Weems, Martin Lewis,
Gus Mercurio, with Jay Kerr as Con Madigan

Fire on the outback threatens to devastate the pioneer settlement of Five Mile Creek

Danger draws the residents of Five Mile Creek ever closer, leading them to make stronger commitments to each other in two new self-contained episodes this month.

Fire rages through the outback in "Across the Great Divide" (premiering September 5).

It threatens the growing young town of Five Mile Creek and awakens terrible memories for Con Madigan (Jay Kerr).

Filming the fire involved complicated, arduous attention to detail. Old out door sets were burned, and that footage was blended with scenes of actual bush fires to achieve the effect of an inferno.

"We had to keep the flames in one area, while providing access for cameras, technicians and the actors," says executive producer Doug Netter. "It was gritty, hot, nerve-racking work. And there was always the chance of a wind springing up!"

The resulting sequence represents a stunning example of the series' noted production values. "In all my experience," Netter concludes. "I've never seen a TV program where a fire of this magnitude and scope has been staged."

A lighthearted outing leads to near tragedy when Maggie (Louise Caire Clark) and her daughter Hannah (Priscilla Weems) are kidnapped in "Missing, Presumed Lost" (premiering September 19). Charlie Withers (Peter Carroll) joins the frantic search for them. Given courage by his feelings for Maggie, he surprises everyone with an act of daring that displays the valorous heart beating beneath his proper banker's attire.

"Happy Trails"

with Roy Rogers and Dale Evans

Well, pardners, we've ridden to the end of happy trails with Roy Rogers and Dale Evans.

In "Bells of Rosarita," a fitting farewell to their Disney Channel series, Roy is a movie actor who saves the ranch for Dale. He's helped in the climactic

free-for-all by such Western heroes as Sunset Carson,
Wild Bill Elliott, Don "Red"
Barry, Bob Livingston and Allan Lane.

Gabby Hayes, Bob Nolan,
Roy Barcroft and Grant
Withers are also featured.

"FIVE WEEKS IN A BALLOON"

Red Buttons, Richard Haydn,
Barbara Eden, Peter Lorre

Here's a high-flying adventure based on a story by that old master of science fiction, Jules Verne.

It's up, up and away with a party of mid-19th century balloonists crossing 4,000 miles of darkest Africa.

A reporter (Red Buttons) gets the party into all kinds of excitement, including an encounter with a slave trader (Peter Lorre) and one of his beautiful captive (Barbara Eden).

NAPOLEON and SAMANTHA

Michael Douglas, Johnnie Whitaker, Jodie Foster

Jodie Foster, Johnnie Whitaker and Major hit the road

Two kids on their own with a tame lion. You can bet they're in for fun, trouble and adventure. That's exactly what befalls them—but not necessarily in that order—when 11-year-old Napoleon Wilson (Johnnie Whitaker) and seven-year-old Samantha Connolly (Jodie Foster) hit the road with an elderly circus lion named Major McLavish.

With cops on their trail and a hippie (Michael Douglas) for a friend, the wanderers straggle into all kinds of unusual situations before it becomes clear that they can't run away from responsibilities.

"Napoleon and Samantha" marked Jodie Foster's movie debut. She went on to do three more films for Disney before interrupting her career to attend Yale University. She returned to acting in "Hotel New Hampshire" and "Sengali," among other recent successes.

THE BEST AND BRIGHTEST INTERNATIONAL CHILDREN'S FILMS

JIMINY CRICKET THEATRE

Good things come in twos when Jiminy Cricket introduces a new pair of international children's films every other Sunday for two-week engagements.

A couple of runaway boys return home, only to find their village completely deserted. What secret do the eerie, empty streets hold? Are the youngsters really "The Last Kids on Earth"?

This British thriller premieres September 2. It's paired with "Billy Breaks the Chain," another installment in the daily lives and adventures of "The Kids of Degraassi Street" from Toronto, Canada. When Billy refuses to pass along a chain letter, he has a run of bad luck that seems to jeopardize his chance to make the hockey team.

Reading, writing and wizardry are the normal school curriculum in "The Little Magician and the Bad Mark," a fantasy airing September 16. Ten-year-old Oliver fails an important basic magic test and must tell his parents. Even as he might, he can't find an "abracadabra" to make the bad grade disappear.

Back on Degraassi Street, "Casey Draws the Line," causing her friendship with Lisa to nearly split up. It would take a Solomon to mend their quarrel.

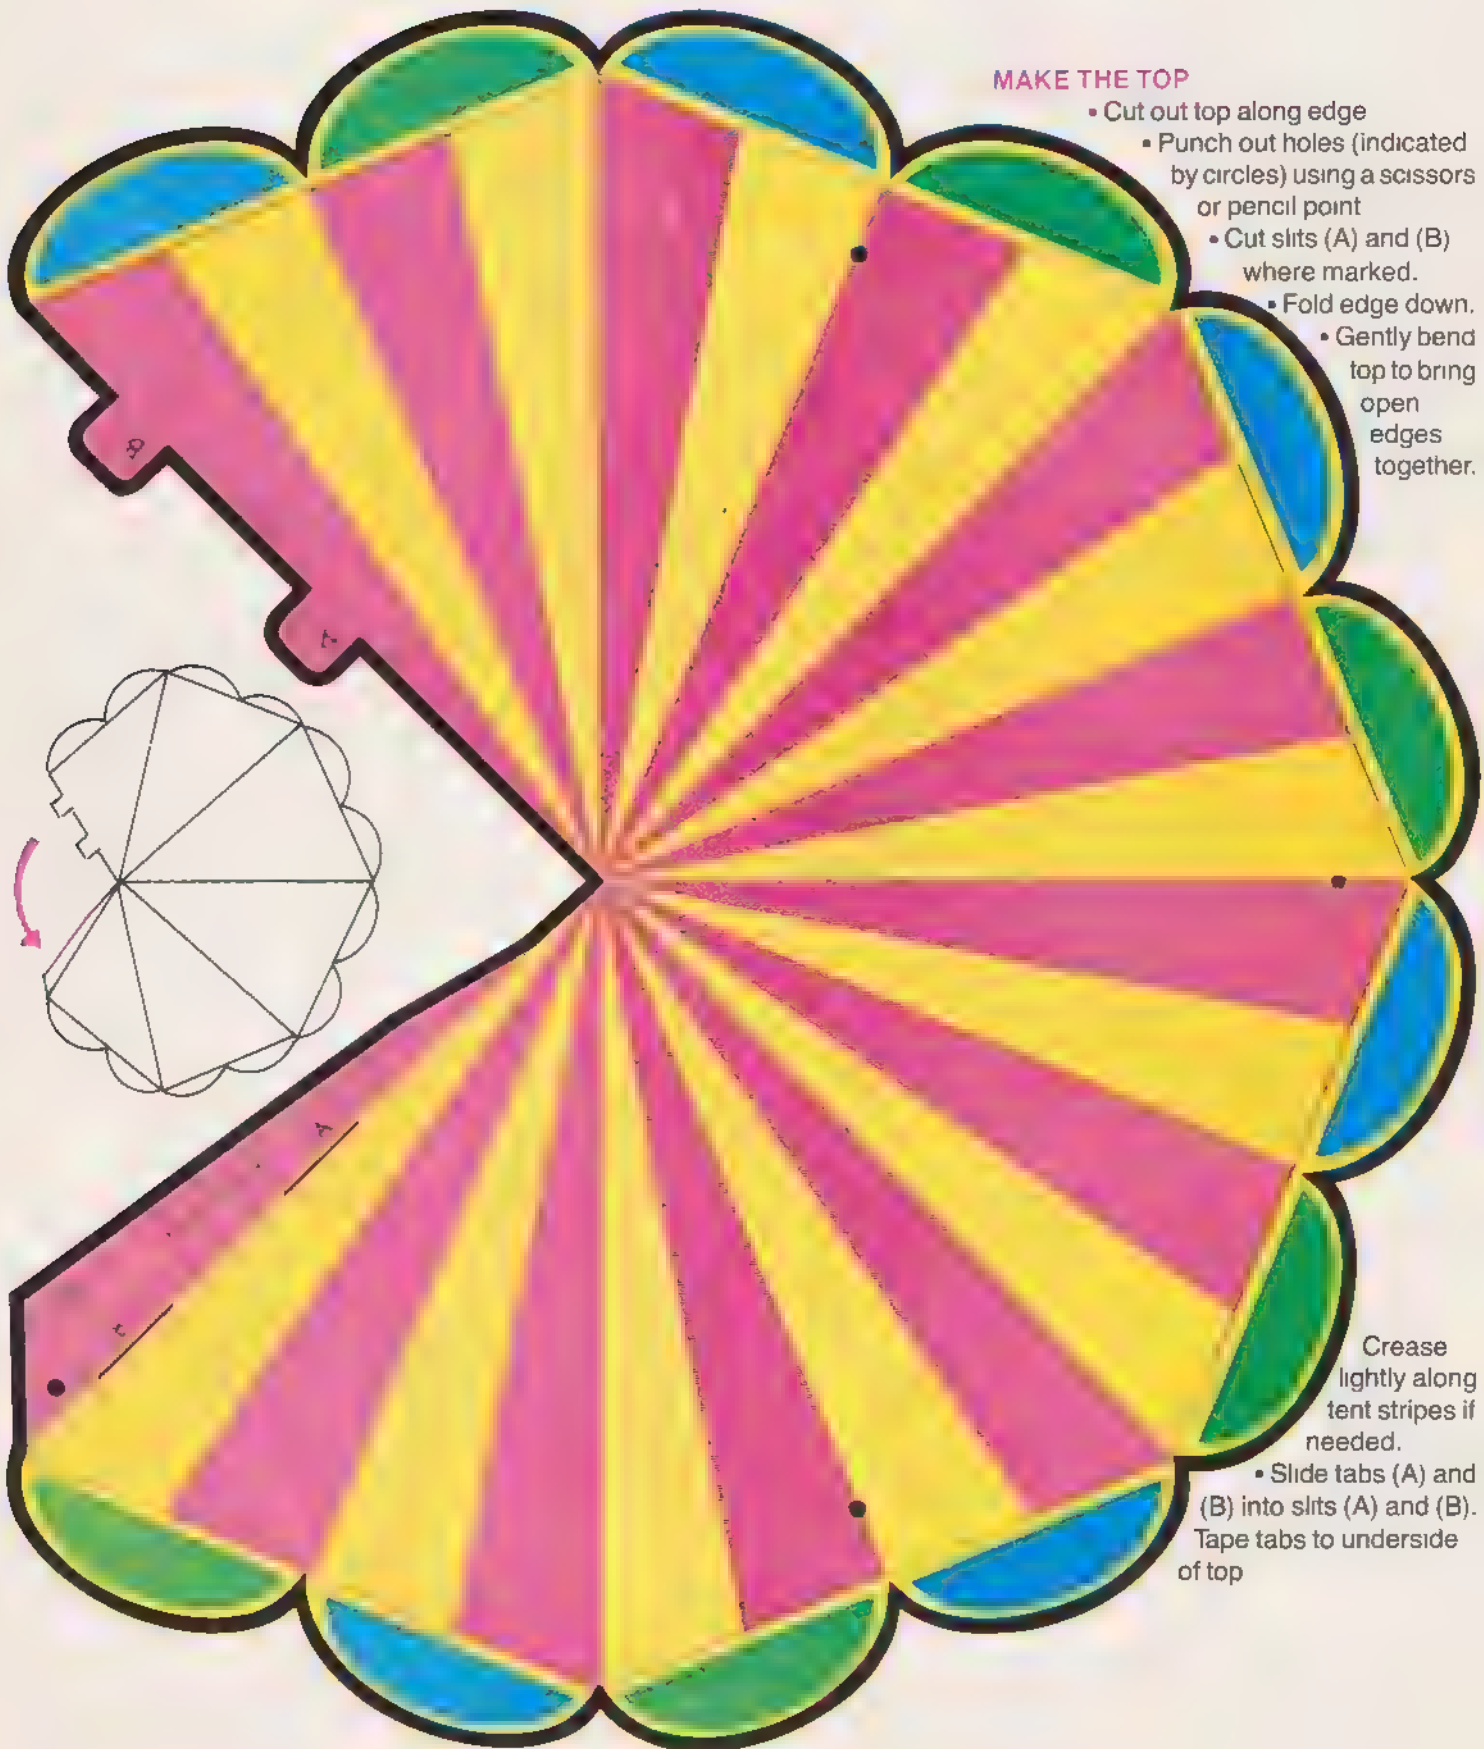

Oliver gets a bad mark in magic (above). Lisa and Casey share rabbit care

Here's your chance to see Lassie, the wonder dog who's been a screen and TV star since the 1940s, in her last feature film

Jonathan Harvey (Paul Kelly), prospecting for gold in the 1870s, has struck it rich. His greedy partner (Bruce Cowling) wants to keep this bonanza all to himself. When Jonathan walks into a murderous trap, it's up to his loyal collie Shep (Lassie)

Loyal Lassie seeks justice to avenge her master's death.

In Shep's pursuit of justice, she must scale sheer cliffs, swim icy mountain streams, and survive perilous chases across snow-covered peaks.

This outdoor adventure was filmed in the breathtaking Sonora Pass on the eastern side of the High Sierras.

ALADDIN AND THE MAGIC LAMP

(Animated Feature)

An enchanting Arabian Nights tale comes to life in this richly drawn, full-length animated feature.

Aladdin, a street boy, discovers the secret of summoning a genie from within an ordinary-looking lamp. A wicked wizard covets the lamp's magical powers, and sets about stealing it. Aladdin and his companion, a runaway princess, pit themselves against the wizard's malevolent spells. Good battles evil and white magic combats black before this Persian fable ends.

The voices of Christopher Atkins, Kristy McNichol, June Lockhart and John Carradine are heard as Aladdin, the princess, Aladdin's mother and the wizard.

BACKSTAGE AT DISNEY

DISNEY STUDIO —SHOWCASE—

Snoop around the Disney Studio with journalist John Culhane, and see what goes on backstage.

Culhane, whose endless curiosity about Disney productions led animators to caricature him as Mr. Snoops in "The Rescuers," walks where angels fear to tread. He opens doors to departments where work is in progress on "Baby," "The Black Cauldron," "Who Framed Roger Rabbit?" and other forthcoming Disney films. He even manages to sneak in preview scenes from them.

By the time Culhane calls it a day on the recording stage, he has given you a step-by-step tour showing how a Disney film is born.

Dolphins reveal themselves to be intelligent mammals

We'd like to call your attention to a tantalizing, widely honored and unanimously praised film "Dolphin" records the experiences of nine companions who sail into the Bermuda Triangle to meet and make friends with wild dolphins. They hope to find out if there's something the human race can learn from them. What follows, wrote one reviewer, is truly awesome.

The group does indeed attract numerous dolphins, who give convincing demonstrations of intelligence and communication. Their affinity for man is depicted in underwater scenes "of breathtaking beauty that awaken a sense of respect and affection for this friendly sea creature with the perpetual smile on its face."

George Plimpton presents Disney cartoon characters in "masterpiece" performances spoofing the popular PBS series.

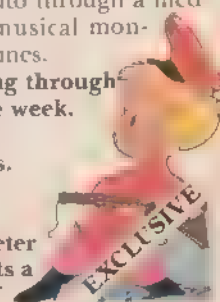

Among the comedies this month, "Don Donald" trades his Mexican burro for a car to woo Donna Duck (who became Daisy in later cartoons). In a clutch, as Don discovers, a car is no match for a burro.

Mickey, Donald and Goofy are "Moose Hunters" who get more than they can handle when they meet their moose. As conductor of "Mickey's Grand Opera" the Mouse leads Clarabelle, Cluck, Donald Duck and Pluto through a medley of musical monkey shins.

We're All Ears

Linda Palmer
Subscriber Services Director

Dear Friends,

This is a special month for The Disney Channel! So many of my favorite films are playing I'm going to have trouble deciding what to watch when!

I can hardly wait to share "Mary Poppins" with my little girl. It's going to be a treat to watch her watching those funny penguins in the animated "Jolly Holiday" sequence.

My husband and I are such baseball fans, you can bet we'll be on base for "Tiger Town." It's a very exciting, uplifting film. I like its "pitch" for positive thinking.

Of course, old-time flubber fans like us wouldn't dream of missing "The Absent-Minded Professor"! How many of you remember that hysterical basketball game played in flubberized gym shoes?

If you haven't tuned in to "Steve Allen's Music Room," try to soon. This is its last month on the air. I think it's a very relaxing, comfortable program—the kind of easy-listening you like after a busy day.

We've enjoyed seeing the photos of your children and their pets so much, we thought it would be grand to see the rest of your family. How 'bout sending us 35mm color slides or prints of your clan together—the more the merrier. We'll be using some of them on the air and in the magazine.

I'm looking forward to hearing from —and SEEING— you soon.

Sincerely,

Linda Palmer

MORE SALUTES TO STEVE

We're making a special effort to get other family members to watch "Steve Allen's Music Room" because they're the ones who got us interested in him when we were children. We'll be sure to keep watching and enjoying the show.

The Hathcock Family
Pontiac, MI

Seeing Steve Allen on Channel made me happy to be a subscriber. There's enough TV aimed at kids. Now those of us 35 and older have something to look forward to!

Bruce Armstrong
Las Vegas, NV

You'll be glad to know that "Steve Allen's Comedy Room" premieres in October

PRAISE FOR POSITIVE INFLUENCES*

I'm a concerned mother who supervises my two sons' TV viewing. I've recently become quite upset about the way commercials were influencing my boys. What a relief The Disney Channel is. Having it in our home isn't just pleasant and enjoyable, it gives us all greater peace of mind!

Candi Deon
Norwood, NY

We ordered The Disney Channel for ourselves as well as our children, and we all enjoy it. One day my 14-year-old wanted to watch a program which I disapprove of on another channel. I told him Disney or nothing. When I came home from grocery shopping, he was totally engrossed watching "The Ugly Dachshund." Now he always asks me what's on The Disney Channel first!

Diane Risor
Piscataway, NJ

Some months ago my sons (6 and 3) saw "The Twelve Tasks of Asterix," and it sparked their imaginations. My 6-year-old said he wanted to do 12 tasks too so he neatened his room, helped tidy the living room, cleaned the bird cage, etc. You can be sure The Disney Channel is a big success in this house! I know my kids wouldn't be getting these attitudes from regular TV.

Marjorie A. Page
Columbus, OH

Due to an illness when she was very small, my youngest daughter Jessica (age 4) is developmentally delayed. She hated to be touched and spoke very little. But since she has been watching "You and Me, Kid" I can hug and kiss her. She talks more now too. She says "You and Me, Kid." Jessica has grown so much since we got The Disney Channel. Thank goodness for you all.

The Disney Channel welcomes letters and pictures from viewers. Send materials for publication to The Disney Channel Subscriber Services, 4111 W. Alameda, Burbank, Ca. 91505. All submissions must include name and address of sender. Please include the name of your local cable operator on all correspondence. Letters may be edited for reasons of space and clarity. All materials become property of The Disney Channel and cannot be individually acknowledged or returned.

PLAY IT AGAIN CINEMA

Select A Favorite Show For A Second Look!

Whether you missed a favorite Disney film the first time around, or just wish you could watch it again, PLAY IT AGAIN CINEMA gives you a second look. Mark your choice of these three films on the ballot and return it to us*. The movie with the most votes will be announced and shown in December. (Remember, only one ballot per family. Please limit your choice to the films listed here.)

☐ THE FIGHTING PRINCE OF DONEGAL

Peter McNery, Susan Hampshire, Tom Adams, George Jackson, Andrew Kier
Sixteenth century Ireland provides the setting for this romantic swashbuckler about a young nobleman who unites his clansmen and leads them against their English oppressors.

☐ the legend of LOBO

Told in song and story by Rex Allen with The Sons of the Pioneers
Based on tales of a real wolf who roamed New Mexico in the 1890s, this stirring film tells of Lobo's courage and cunning, and his fight against human predators.

☐ Thomasina

Patrick McGoohan, Susan Hampshire, Karen Dotrice, Matthew Garber
In a remote Scottish village an extraordinary cat changes the lives of an embittered widowed veterinarian, his lonely little daughter and a reclusive young woman.

Exploring the Archives

Dave Smith, head of Walt Disney Archives, has the facts on all things Disney Letters concerning the history of the company and its productions are handled by the Archives.

How far did Walt Disney go in school?—M.D., Huntington Beach, Calif

Walt Disney began his formal schooling in Marceline, Missouri, and was graduated as an eighth grader from Benton (Elementary) School in Kansas City in 1917. He then attended one year at McKinley High School in Chicago. World War I intervened (Walt served in the Red Cross), and he never returned to school. Some art classes at night school prepared him for his future profession, and an inquiring mind and retentive memory contributed to his lifelong quest for knowledge.

Action blazes in "Five Mile Creek"

"Five Mile Creek" reminds me of a show I saw on the Disney television series several years ago. What was it?—B.J.E., Dallas, Texas

The pilot for "Five Mile Creek" aired on the Disney CBS-TV series November 28, 1981 as "The Cherokee Trail." That film was set at Cherokee Station, in the heart of the Colorado wilderness, and was based on a story by Louis L'Amour. When producer Doug Netter got the go-ahead for a series, he transplanted the locale to Australia.

Reagan and Cummings face Linkletter

Has Ronald Reagan ever been in a Disney film?—G.C., Clayton, Mo

No, Ronald Reagan never acted in a Disney motion picture, but he did serve as one of the emcees for the television show on the opening day of Disneyland. That show, on July 17, 1955, was the most ambitious live TV event ever covered up to that time, and Reagan shared his emcee tasks with Art Linkletter and Bob Cummings.

DISNEY CHANNEL TRIVIA

Michael Douglas, starring in "Napoleon and Samantha" (see page 16) and currently in the popular "Romancing the Stone," is just one of several members of father-son teams who have worked in Disney films. His father, Kirk Douglas, was in "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea."

...The beautiful scenery in "Napoleon and Samantha" was discovered by producer Winston Hibler in the Strawberry Mountains wilderness area of eastern Oregon.

...David Tomlinson was a veteran of over 35 British films, but he had never sung on screen before making "Mary Poppins" (see page 7). A little polishing of his fine baritone voice soon had him singing like a pro.

Jane Darwell was 84 years old when she portrayed the memorable Bird Woman in "Mary Poppins." She had won an Oscar over two decades earlier for Best Supporting Actress in "The Grapes of Wrath."

Readers who have Disney-related questions can write to Dave Smith, c/o The Disney Channel Magazine, 4111 W. Alameda Avenue, Burbank, CA 91505.

LION'S SHARE OF IDEAS

"Napoleon and Samantha" (September 7, 11, 13, 16, 18, 21, 23, 24, 26, and 29) is an innocent, charming adventure. But there's more to it than that.

Like any good stick-to-your-ribs story, "Napoleon and Samantha" offers insights that stay with you, providing food for thought—and for family discussion.

Here are several quotations from the film. Pick one or more of them to talk about and see where each leads you.

Napoleon, Major and Samantha cuddle

1) "Nobody ever really dies. The thing that's real inside you just keeps going on and on forever." Grandpa

2) "For everything there is a season." Danny quoting from the Bible

3) "People just make up things in their mind to be scared about." Napoleon

4) "It's all right to do your own thing as long as it doesn't hurt someone else." Danny

5) "Education enables you to be useful. You have to be useful." Danny

6) "Nobody can make it alone. We all need people to help us." Danny

MICKEY'S Just for Kids SECTION

Hi Everybody!

It's "back to school time!"
YUP! It's that time of year and The Disney Channel is part of the fun! "Mary Poppins" and "The Absent-Minded Professor" are flying in this month (they certainly know how to get around). And Herbie wheely burns rubber in "Herbie Goes Bananas."

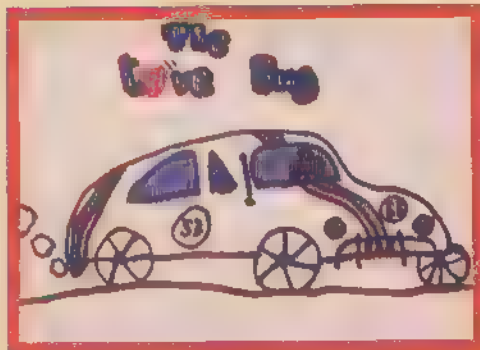

Here's my September poem:
My Disney Channel waits for me
After school for company.
And super shows are always shown
For everybody still at home.
What do you think? Keep sending me your poems and drawings, and remind your parents to send 35mm slides of your whole family. Maybe your picture will be part of our new program (premiering in November) showing Disney Channel families!!

ESSAY: HERE'S MICKEY MOUSE

Through the years, Mickey has changed in appearance to make him less a crude cartoon and more a modern workable figure. His nose became shorter, and he grew rounder and sleeker. He has pupils for eyes instead of larger dots, and he now has eyebrows. For more of a human appearance, his tail disappeared. Later, his tail was restored.

It's wonderful that the most lovable Disney character, Mickey Mouse, is going to be on television to entertain us again with all his friends.

The Kids of Degrassi Street show you how to make BOOK COVERS!

"The Kids of Degrassi Street" know that dust jackets protect your books. They also make old, worn books look bright and attractive again. It's easy to dress up your favorite books with a grocery bag cover and some imagination. Here's how:

1. Cut a grocery bag open so it's flat.

2. Cut a long, 2-inch-wide strip of paper. Mark the left short side of the strip "A."

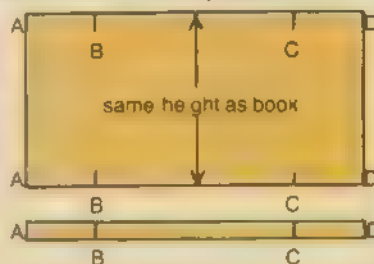

3. Measure 4 inches from point "A" and mark point "B." Fold at point "B" and paper clip strip to an edge of the book. Wrap the strip around the book snugly. Tuck the remaining end of the strip inside the book and mark where it folds over the edge of the book as point "C." Remove the strip, flatten it and measure and mark point "D" 4 inches to the right of point "C."

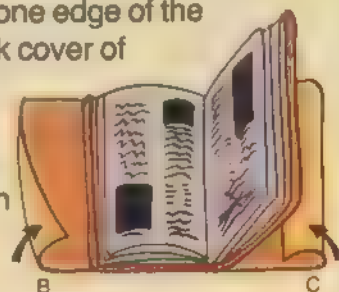

Cut off extra paper.

4. Using the strip as a marker, cut a piece of paper bag as long as the strip and as wide as the height of your book. Mark the paper at points "B" and "C," just like on the strip.

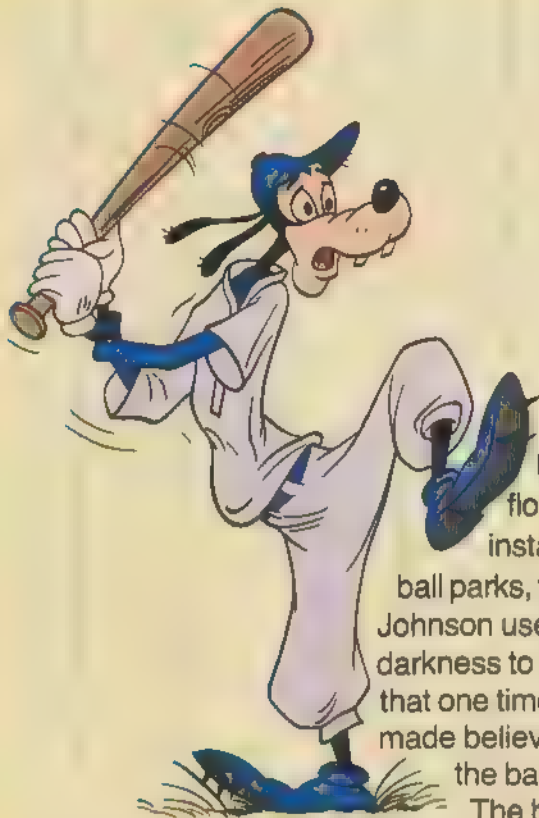

5. Open your book and place it flat with the cover side down. Fold one edge of the paper to the inside back cover of the book lining up the book's edge with point "C" on the paper. Tape. Repeat with point "B" on the other side of the book.

6. Decorate by cutting out and gluing on these pictures, or drawing your own designs.

Watch "Jiminy Cricket Theatre" September 2, 7, 15, 16, 22, 23, 29 and 30

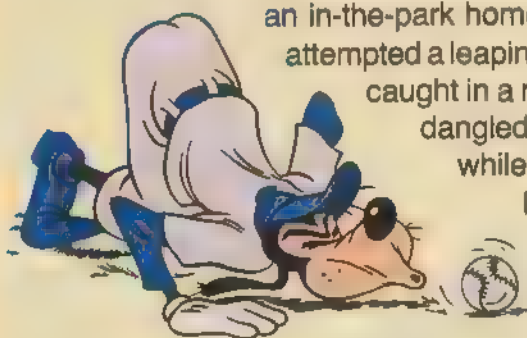

'TIGER TOWN'

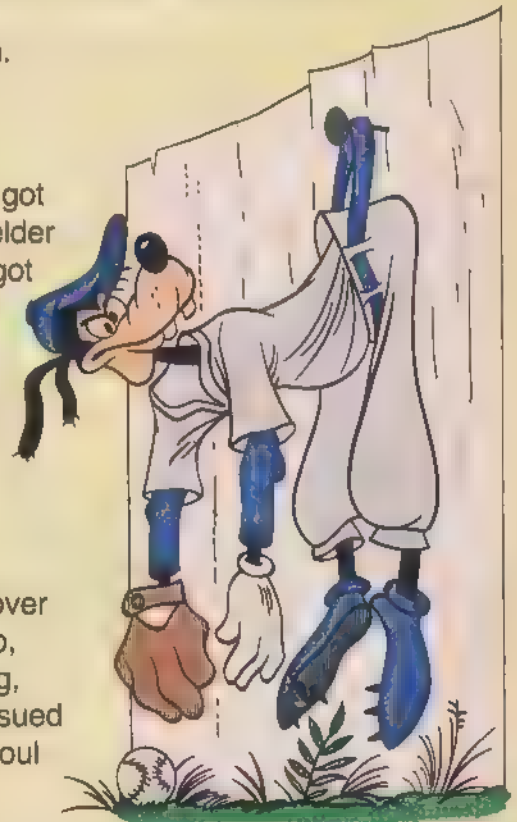

is a super movie for the whole family.
But there are some goofball facts that you may not know already.

(September 1, 3, 5, 9, 11, 15, 20, 24, and 28)

Before floodlights were installed in modern ball parks, fastballer Walter Johnson used the late-afternoon darkness to advantage. His pitches were so fast that one time the catcher kept the ball, and the pitcher made believe he was throwing. The catcher popped the ball in his glove, and the umpire yelled, "Strike one!" The batter objected—he claimed the pitch was high.

Several decades ago Honus Wagner got an in-the-park home run when the outfielder attempted a leaping catch and his belt got caught in a nail on the fence. He dangled helplessly in midair while Wagner circled the bases and crossed home plate.

Many a grade school player has tried to coax a slow roller over into foul territory by blowing on the ball. Is it legal? Years ago, when a player in the International League did the same thing, nobody protested. But next morning the league president issued a proclamation which read, in part: "You can't blow the ball foul hereafter in this league..."

Watch "Herbie Goes Bananas" September 4, 8, 10, 12, 14, 17, 20, 22, 26 and 30

The Mystery Answer: In "Herbie Goes Bananas," he goes for the boat, the bull and the gold.

FIND IT IN THE LIBRARY!

Next time you have a book report due at school, read one of these books, write your report, then watch the movie the book came from as a special reward for a job well done!

The Movie: Mary Poppins

The Books: "Mary Poppins,"
"Mary Poppins Comes Back,"
"Mary Poppins in the Park,"

"Mary Poppins Opens the Door" and "Mary Poppins from A to Z" by P. L. Travers (Ms. Travers must have really liked writing about Mary Poppins, don't you think?)

The Movie: Aladdin and the

Magic Lamp The Book: "1001 Arabian Nights" This book doesn't have an author because it is a collection of folk tales.

SOUNDING GOOD!

Create Your Own Sound Effects Just Like the Experts on Disney Family Album (September 5, 8, 13, 16, 19, 22, 25, 26, and 28).

Set up your own sound effects stage in your garage or back yard. Make up spooky stories with lots of scarrrrrrrrrry noises. Listen closely and use your imagination. Lots of everyday objects make noises that sound like something else. If you have a tape recorder you can record your creations!

- 1. Take cellophane (like candy wrappers) and crinkle it in your hand. It will remind you of campfires burning and tall grass rustling.

- 2. Make noises into a large, open-ended cylinder such as a wrapping paper or mailing tube. You can sound like a huge growling bear or a howling coyote.

- 3. By rubbing a small amount of gravel lightly in your hand, you can create the sound of animals munching or bones crunching.

- 4. Ask an adult to cut a coconut in half and scoop out the meat. Pound the coconut shells against a wooden board in the rhythms you want. (If you can't get a coconut, use the rubber parts of two small plungers.) You can be a herd of galloping horses!
